Dear Nido Parents:

We're excited to work with your students during the upcoming Nido SAT preparation course! As you may know, the SAT exam is required by the majority of American universities to be considered for admission. The better a student performs on the SAT, the better a student's chance of admission to selective universities. Additionally, a great score often weighs heavily in scholarship and financial aid awards.

For over 25 years, Higher Ground Learning has been providing SAT test preparation to students at international schools around the globe. Our instructors have years of experience, top scores, and degrees from prestigious universities. But it's not just about credentials; our instructors provide an engaging, attentive classroom experience. The course only lasts a couple of weeks, but our instructors are uniquely focused on the students, producing classes hand-tailored to each group. In addition, each student can attend a free personalized strategy session with the instructor to further tailor their approach. Flexible 1-on-1 tutoring sessions are available to help students tackle their own unique challenges.

Here are the details:
